

JOVLY – Chenin Blanc (Vouvray) 2019

2019 is likely to be desired with, depending on the sector, about a third or even half the harvest than the previous year, especially in the west of the department (Chinon, Bourgueil, Saint-Nicolas...). This is mainly due to the different climatic hazards of the year. Frost, hail, coulure and finally drought this summer, have not spared the winemakers throughout the year 2019.

Fortunately, the moderate rainfall in September allowed the grapes to swell and reach a beautiful maturity. Coupled with its greater rarity, this suggests an even more promising 2019 vintage.
